ABOUT THE INSTITUTION

Founded in 1985, the Bishop Cotton Women's Christian College, has grown in a few years, to become a leading Pre-University and Degree College in Bangalore, India with an earned reputation for providing a superior academic education in an invigorating atmosphere. The effort has been to move always one step ahead and be involved primarily in women's development. The progress is a manifestation of our total dedication, commitment and faith in God. The Institution is managed by the Karnataka Central Diocese of the Church of South India. The motto of the college is "Nec Dextrorsum, Nec Sinistrorsum". These Latin words which mean 'neither to the right nor to the left' come from the Latin version of the Old Testament in the Bible. The words are a direct reference to the Commandment of God to Joshua, who was commissioned as the new leader of the Israelites. The college has a team of well distinguished and efficient academicians who are highly qualified in their respective fields of specialization. Building on its past experience the college recognises the need to move forward. In the true Cottonian spirit, the college looks to new horizons dedicating it to the women's empowerment. The Institution will continue to send out into the world, women of integrity and substance. To us, the past is an experience, the present a challenge and the future an opportunity

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

Corporate governance refers to the relationship that exists between the different stakeholders of an organisation and defining the direction and performance of an organisation or a corporate firm. The relevance of understanding of the issues and concerns and to have good Corporate Governance has always been there for a sustainable growth of any organisation. The issue has gained more importance in recent times, when we see many corporate scandals coming out in India as well as other parts of the world, as those organisations did not apply good principles of Corporate Governance. The main actors in Corporate Governance are Chief Executive officers, Board of Directors, Shareholders.

The others who influence governance in corporations are Employees, Suppliers, Creditors, Customers and Community i.e., all the stakeholders of the organisation.

The essence of Corporate Governance is the set of mechanism used to manage the relationship among stakeholders and to determine and control the strategic direction and performance of organisation. This direction and subsequent performance will determine the success or failure of the organisation. Hence, we need to understand the issues of corporate governance
